

October 12, 2011 - Presentation to the Creative Arts & Social Sciences Division about a new documentary film database.

New Database!

High quality, multi-disciplinary, streaming videos

- Similar to YouTube but with deeper treatment of educational topics and much more functionality for users. Excellent coverage of social sciences and creative arts subjects.
- Access online! Show films in class, email links to students, and embed them in WebAccess!

Faculty and students need only a valid library card to access the database from off campus - stop by the library to obtain or renew your card.

Visit the Library Home Page for instructions about using this database, and saving and sharing the films. Select Research Guides from library web site left menu, then, under Featured Guides, select Finding & Using Online Videos.
