Hi Film Studies & Ethnic Studies faculty,

I signed us up for trial access to Criterion Collection films via Alexander Street Press. We have access until April 6, 2018, and you are free to use in class and share with students during that time period. Library Card sign in is required when viewing from off campus.

As you probably already know, this collection includes films from Federico Fellini, Akira Kurosawa, and more.

I began using the trial this morning and noticed it was running very slow...I'll check in with ASP about that problem. I'd like to know if you experience that, and other thoughts about your experience using the platform, and of course, whether the content would be useful for your classes.

Let me know if you have questions, or any issues accessing the trial. I appreciate your feedback.

Best,
Stephanie

PS-Criterion Collection films are available from a few other sources (like Kanopy, for example), and I am investigating some of those options, too. If you've used Kanopy, feel free to send me feedback based on your experience. San Mateo County Public Libraries, San Mateo City Public Library, and some other public libraries have access or trial access right now to streaming film services such as Kanopy or Hoopla (for example, San Francisco Public Library and Oakland Public Library). You might check with your local public library to try those out if you are interested and don't have access by one of the libraries listed above.
