Community College Library Consortium

One of the League's most popular services is the Community College Library Consortium, a joint project with the Council of Chief Librarians.

The Consortium provides informational databases and other vital online resources to libraries at all 114 colleges and many off-campus centers throughout California and beyond. Employing economies of scale, the program offers member-libraries cost savings on more than 1000 different databases covering nearly every discipline. These databases are essential for students, faculty, and community members expecting high-quality sources and information to be available at our college libraries and education centers.

The Community College Library Consortium's website provides college librarians with information about all available consortium services as well as reviews on databases, information on how to order and renew subscriptions, usage statistics, and license agreements.

For questions or information about the Community College Library Consortium, please contact the League's Program Director, James Wisner at jwisner@cclleague.com or 916-800-2175.
