3. COURSE DESCRIPTIONS:

Catalog Description:

Restorative Yoga III, sometimes known as "active relaxation," is a gentle form of Hatha yoga. It is a deeply relaxing practice of supported yoga poses, guided relaxation, yogic breathing, and an extended savasana (final resting pose). This meditative practice cultivates physical and physiological responses which will help the body to function at its highest level. Restorative yoga postures are available to all bodies regardless of build, age, or gender.

4. STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOME(S) (SLO'S):

Upon successful completion of this course, a student will meet the following outcomes:

1. Demonstrate knowledge of restorative yoga postures at an advanced level.
2. Understand the physical and mental benefits of restorative yoga at an advanced level.
3. Improve body composition, range of motion, overall body weight, resting heart rate, strength and endurance, and/or aerobic capacity.

5. SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONAL OBJECTIVES:

Upon successful completion of this course, a student will be able to:

1. Reduce stress levels through the use of restorative yoga postures and philosophies.
2. Understand the physical and mental benefits of restorative yoga at an advanced level.

- Restorative yoga postures
- Use of props in restorative yoga
- Physiology of relaxation
- Physical and mental aspects of restorative yoga

NOTES ON TEACHING THE CLASS:

Start out with a few minutes of gentle movement before settling into a restorative pose or practice. A little stretching will warm the muscles and create space in the body to prepare it for relaxation. Movement will also give your body a chance to shed its restlessness and busyness before settling into a place of stillness.

Don't skimp on the props. Blocks, straps, blankets, balls, towels, chairs, walls, sandbags, eye bags, and pillows are all useful when propping restorative poses. The more fully the student's body is supported, the deeper their sense of relaxation and surrender will be.

Take the time to let students get comfortable on their props and make any necessary adjustments before they settle in. In restoratives the distance between heaven and hell can be as little as half an inch. A small adjustment to a blanket or a minor shift in the body's position can transform a moment of exasperated agony into pure bliss. Help them make any modifications they need.

Hold each pose from 5-45 minutes as is appropriate. Always end in savasana (corpse pose). Remind students that restorative postures are powerful - more powerful than they may realize at first. It is not uncommon to be sore or feel extreme emotional release after a restorative yoga class.
