Institutional Planning Committee

Summary Report 2021–2022

Like the rest of the college, the 2021-2022 academic year was period of transition and new starts for IPC. As students, faculty, staff, and administrators returned to campus after two years of remote operations due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the campus community welcomed the College's new president, Dr. Jennifer Taylor-Mendoza. The College also embarked on celebration of its centennial, honoring 100 years of academic excellence. IPC continued its work in the areas of equity, college planning and governance, and campus communication. As part of the Program Review process, IPC reviewed reports from departments and programs to identify campus wide themes and issues that may need to be addressed. The committee also reviewed data from the College's Student Antiracism Survey and discussed trends in enrollment, which will lay the groundwork for future campus planning.
